

Module 4 Special occasions

- 1 Read the e-mail from Jane to her friend Paula. She has made some mistakes with her tenses. Find the mistakes and write the correct form under the mistakes.

Hi how are you?

It's been such a long time since I saw you last. I hope everything goes well for you in Australia. How are Mike and the kids? They must be so big now.

The reason I write is that I've got some news: I'm getting married! I met John about three months ago – I know it's not a long time but I'm sure he's the one. I met him at the tennis club and we got on great from the start. He works with IBM which sounds good but in fact he doesn't really like his job and he isn't very well-paid because he works in the admin department at the moment. He's a qualified accountant, though and he moves to the accounts department next year so he should get more money. He's a really funny guy and he's loving sports. He's being a member of a canoeing club and we go canoeing every week together now. It's great fun, but sometimes I think it's a bit dangerous.

We'll have the wedding reception in The Grand Hotel in Bournemouth. Do you remember it? It's big enough for all of us. We invite 200 guests – it's a lot, but John's family is enormous and they will come from all over England and Scotland for the wedding. The Scottish side of his family have said they all wear kilts on the day of the wedding! After the reception we're going back to the tennis club for the dance. They organise a band and a bar for us.

We're going on honeymoon to the south of France. Nothing special really but just a chance for us to relax. It's been very stressful organising the wedding. We will leave the day after the wedding and flying into Nice.

Teacher's notes:

Module 4 Special occasions

This worksheet is designed for use after completion of Module 4.

1 Ask students to check their answers in pairs before you get class feedback.

Hi how are you?

It's been such a long time since I saw you last. I hope everything's going well for you in Australia. How are Mike and the kids? They must be so big now.

The reason I'm writing is that I've got some news: I'm getting married! I met John about three months ago – I know it's not a long time but I'm sure he's the one. I met him at the tennis club and we got on great from the start. He works with IBM which sounds good but in fact he doesn't really like his job and he isn't very well-paid at the moment because he's working in the admin department. He's a qualified accountant, though and he's moving to the accounts department next year so he should get more money. He's a really funny guy and he loves sports. He's a member of a canoeing club and we go canoeing every week together now. It's great fun, but sometimes I think it's a bit dangerous.

We're having the wedding reception in The Grand Hotel in Bournemouth. Do you remember it? It's big enough for all of us. We're inviting 200 guests – it's a lot, but John's family is enormous and they are coming from all over England and Scotland for the wedding. The Scottish side of his family have said they are all wearing kilts on the day of the wedding! After the reception we're going back to the tennis club for the dance. They're organising a band and a bar for us.

We're going on honeymoon to the south of France. Nothing special really but just a chance for us to relax. It's been very stressful organising the wedding. We're leaving the day after the wedding and flying into Nice.